Iowa, Missouri And
Illinois Facing Coal
Shortage

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Subzero cold took another big bite tonight as temperatures ranging down 20 degrees under zero were forecast for wide reaches of the snow covered farm belt as its coldest January in many years ended.

In Iowa, Missouri and Illinois concern over fuel supplies was evinced at a number of points. Mines worked full blast during the day, rationing of coal was adopted in Knoxville, Mo., and in Peoria, La. Salle, Peru and Oglesby, Ill.

Some Illinois miners agreed to give up their Saturday holiday to dig against the piled up coal orders, but the request for the extra day of work brought a dispute between members of the U. M. W. A. and Progressive Miners of America unions and operators employing both as to whether it should be granted. Iowa authorities sought a similar concession from the union miners of that state, but the negotiations had brought no work order.

In Poplar Bluffs, Mo., only one dealer had any coal left and residents turned to wood to keep the home fires alive. Digging, normally inactive in that state, were opened to help meet the increased demand. The White Hall, Ill., high school was closed because of fuel shortage. At least a half dozen men deaths from the weather or fires were reported.

Coldest spot on the midcontinent was Bemidji, Minn., with 31 below this morning. At no place on the weather map for the area was it "warmer" than 14 above. Dodge City, Kas., had that reading.

Ohio fruit growers predicted the severe cold would result in heavy losses to the peach, cherry and plum crops. Other fruits, Chicago grain traders reported, said that no snow protection had arrived before Monday night to important wheat areas in western Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle and sections of Kansas. The intense cold of the last week was reflected at the meeting of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission today when four counties in the northern and central parts of the state were advised to suspend further coal purchases. They were Pope, Henry, Kane and La Salle.

Arrest Suspect In Murder Case

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Police searched today for Leonard Moore 18 after receiving a warrant from Tuscumbia, Ill., authorities for his arrest in connection with the slaying of John and Edward Burmeister, Tuscumbia garage men, last July 13.

Moore's description, police said they were informed, tallied closely with that of a "mystery man" seen in Tuscumbia shortly before the shooting.

At Tuscumbia, State's Attorney Harry L. Pate said information pointing to Moore also came from Albert "Blackie" Ross, recently sentenced to a life term in prison for the slaying of William James Kankakee, Ill., grocer, during a holdup.

Moore's family, Pate said, resided in McLeansboro until a few months ago, then moved to East St. Louis.

Postoffice To Make Big Profit Moving U. S. Gold

Three Billion Dollars Worth
Of Metal Will Be Taken
To Fort Knox, Ky.

By Melbourne Christerson
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Postoffice Department stands to make a neat little profit of about $400,000 when it moves gold bullion into the treasury's new underground vault at Fort Knox, Ky.

Figuring on handling $3,000,000,000 worth of the metal, postal officials said today the treasury's bill would run around $600,000 with maybe a few extras. The $600,000 is for parcel post. That's the only way gold in large quantities is shipped in this country.

The movement probably won't start until July or later. Right now the workmen are battling snow and cold to erect the monetary fortress in the center of the Kentucky military reservation.

Latest word here was that contractors had finished a ten-foot thick concrete mat on which the vault will rest and had put into place 16 percent of the steel. When the 40 by 64 foot vault is complete, the actual construction of a two-story square building to house it will commence.

Transferring billions in gold is ticklish business, postal men said, but they are well equipped by experience to do the job—and take the profit.

H. W. Caldwell Is Endorsed By Harmony Group

Cook County Committee
Has Split Over
Candidates

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The self-styled "Harmony Group" of the Cook county (Chicago) Republican state central committee tonight endorsed the candidacy of County Commissioner H. Wallace Caldwell for the Republican nomination for governor.

The committee voted the endorsement at an executive session in a loop hotel.

A statement from the Caldwell headquarters said 26 of the 32 committeemen attending the meeting lent their support to the endorsement.

Action of the "harmony group" split the Chicago Republican organization in two.

About two weeks ago at least 28 other members of the committee bolted and voted their support to Wesleyland Brooks, Chicago attorney, as the gubernatorial candidate.

The "harmony group" has been conducting meetings since in an attempt to form both a state and county slate for the primary election in April.

Following his endorsement, Caldwell was taken into the meeting. He predicted a Republican victory in November and urged a continuation of the harmony movement toward the end of a united party.

He stressed what he said was the importance of defeating the New Deal.

Workers Charges Will Be Probed

Pekin, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Mayor W. E. Schurman appointed a committee today to investigate charges by union workers of the American Distilling company here that their seniority rights had been violated.

He said he named the committee, composed of himself, Col. Albert Callerton, Delavan and Louis Moschel, Pekin, at the request of George Mitchell, Peoria, vice-president of the company.

Superintendent J. F. Barnard said that 50 office employees returned to their jobs today and arranged for distribution of $15,000 in salary checks, delayed when pickets forced the plant to close for 11 days.

Sheriff Ralph Geier and deputies continued to patrol the company grounds. A few pickets continued to parade peacefully in front of the plant despite the cold weather.

AUTO IS DESTROYED; OCCUPANTS ESCAPE
Joliet, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—An automobile which crashed into the side of a Washburn freight train at a grade crossing eight miles north of here today was destroyed, but the two occupants escaped with only minor injuries.

The car, driven by Albert Simon, 31, was dragged several hundred feet along the right of way and finally caught fire after Simon and his passenger, Charles McCune, 16, both of this city, had crawled to safety.

BROKEN RAIL BLAMED FOR TRAIN WRECK

Three Persons Are Killed And Thirty-
One Injured

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Investigators emerged from a mass of sprawling, battered steel tonight with evidence that a broken rail hurtled the Reading company's light fliter from a 20-foot bridge, killing three and injuring 31.

The locomotive thundered around a curve and hit the break last night as the bridge spanning the old Pennsylvania canal and the Susquehanna river was reached. With a roar and shower of fire and sparks it crashed on the banks of the stream. Three coaches followed it to the dry bed of the canal, and another lay squarely across a main highway. A fifth hung precariously from the side of the structure.

Dr. Joseph K. Fisher, the first physician on the scene, worked long-handed in the bitter cold for more than an hour on "the most shocking job I've had in a quarter of a century."

"There were so many cries for help that we didn't know which way to turn," the physician related. Dr. Guy Rothfus, of Williamsport, the only passenger killed, "had almost every bone in his body shattered, I believe," Dr. Fisher said.

The others killed were Washington Denshaw, of Tamaqua, the fireman, and William Ramp, the engineer. The train ripped away two spans of the bridge in its dive. Late today the combination mail and baggage car was still blocking the highway and traffic was delayed.

Two of the injured, Mrs. Clara Brownell, of Williamsport, and Fred Fulton, of Muncy, were reported in a serious condition at Sunbury's Mary Packer hospital. Ten were held at the hospital and the others were discharged.

Sixteen of the injured were students of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, homebound on "The Williamsporter" for a mid-year vacation.

Anna Leach, telephone operator, saw the wreck from her home in Sunbury. She said the engine stopped suddenly in a "blaze of sparks," then came a burst of fire as the ties of the bridge burst into flames. Both she and Herbert Beck, who also saw the engine topple off the bridge, called police and hospitals. Two firemen suffered from frost while fighting the blaze on the bridge.

Cold Spell One of Longest on Record; Slight Relief Seen

Ice-crystal Clouds Augur
Change, Says Dr. Norbury;
Snow Is Scheduled

Yesterday was the tenth of abnormal cold and the ninth of sub-zero temperatures, Dr. P. P. Norbury, local weather observer reported Wednesday of this week the mercury showed a minimum of eight above zero, the only minimum mark above the line during the ten days.

At 7 o'clock yesterday morning the official reading was thirteen degrees below zero. The highest temperature Friday was nine above.

In commenting on the doubt some people expressed Thursday of the reading of 17 below, Dr. Norbury stated that there were some thermometers in the west part of the city that registered even lower marks, and that the reading at the School for the Deaf yesterday morning was three degrees under the official temperature.

Sun-dogs were reported seen by local residents Thursday morning. Dr. Norbury explained that these phenomena are formed by the reflection of the sun on ice crystals in the air. He pointed out "mare's tails" clouds appearing in the sky yesterday morning and explained that they were also ice crystals of very thin texture floating at a height of seven miles.

These clouds, he said, indicate an approaching change in the weather. He predicted increasing cloudiness and a rise in temperature, with probable snow by Sunday. He thought the low point tonight might be about zero.

The cold wave is one of the longest on record. The ice is thicker than it has been for many years. In some places the ice is affecting concrete walks and floors of garages, pushing up the concrete through an unusual expansion of the ground beneath.

WILL BURY VICTIM
Point Pleasant, W. Va., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Sen. H. McCandless, son of a Confederate general, arranged today to pay the funeral expenses of the man he was convicted of slaying.

The 45-year-old Mason county farmer was under 18 years sentence for the slaying of Howard Chester West, a World War hero decorated by five nations.

West was a tenant on the McCandless farm.

The supreme court recently refused to review the conviction.

Thomas O. Coultas of the Markham neighborhood was a business visitor in the city yesterday.

Convicts Plotted Murder Of R. Loeb Prosecutor Says

Declares Nathan Leopold
May Have Had Part In Prison Crime

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—State's Attorney W. R. McCabe asserted tonight his investigation had dug up new evidence buttressing his theory that Richard Loeb was slashed to death in a "deliberate murder plot" in which Nathan Leopold may have had a part.

He branded the statement by James Day, 23 year old robber, that he had wielded a razor on Loeb in self defense against improper advances by the slayer of Bobby Franks "obviously false and concocted before the murder was committed."

Though Day refused to budge from his account of Tuesday night's slaying when the prosecutor questioned him at the prison during the day, McCabe insisted "it is increasingly evident that Loeb was the victim of a plot and that Day was not its sole author."

"Loeb was tremendously popular throughout the prison. His partner in the Franks crime, Leopold, on the other hand because of his supercilious intellectual snobbery, is generally disliked," said McCabe.

"I shall work on the belief that Leopold or some other prisoners got fed up with Loeb's popularity—wanted his place in the general favor—and plotted this murder."

The prosecutor announced he had gathered the fresh facts in a three-hour interview with Edward Skopowski, cell partner of Loeb at the Stateville penitentiary. He said he also planned to question Leopold—confederate of Loeb in the 1934 murder of little Bobby Franks.

McCabe said Day made this reply to his insistence that he "tell the real story":

"I told the real story. I've got a lawyer. I will talk no more until he goes to court."

The prosecutor related how Day—suddenly confronted with photographs of the razor slashed body—covered his face with his hands and wept.

The state's attorney disclosed he would question more inmates.

"Skopowski said Loeb never made any advances toward him and the only differences they ever had were over the loud speaker in their cell," the prosecutor said.

New Farm Plan Wins Support Of Illinois Farmers

Unreserved Endorsement Is Given Administration's
Proposals

By Curtis R. Hay
Associated Press Staff Writer
Decatur, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Declaring a constitutional amendment should be sought to achieve farm parity only if all alternatives failed, Illinois farmers today threw the weight of one of the nation's largest state organizations of agriculture behind the national administration's new farm plan.

Delegates and members of the Illinois Agricultural Association which has a membership of 65,000 farmers considered their annual convention with unreserved endorsement of the New Deal's proposal for a substitute to the outlawed AAA.

The plan would provide production adjustment by soil conservation, expansion of markets for farm surpluses and increased warehouse receipt loans on farm commodities.

Heading the wishes of a large bloc of the association which favored support immediately of a constitutional amendment to restore the agricultural adjustment act. The convention adopted a resolution which read:

"We reaffirm our faith in the established order of our government and in the ideals upon which government is founded, with only such modifications and changes in its organic laws as experience and mature judgment disclose as necessary to preserve its institutions, its established political and economic liberties and to secure and maintain proper economic balance and social justice as between all groups and classes."

Earl C. Smith, Detroit, Ill., president of the association interpreted the resolution to mean that "we will not resort to support of a constitutional amendment unless a full, exhaustive effort to attain farm parity under present interpretations of the constitution fails."

ESCAPED FROM PONTIAC
Detroit, Mich., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Police said today that Ernest Balog, 27, arrested last week on larceny charges, admitted he had escaped from the Pontiac, Ill., reformatory.

Balog said he had married in Toledo five years ago and was the father of a four-year-old son. Since his escape, he said, he had lived "in constant fear."

Illinois authorities advised police here that Balog was sentenced to the reformatory from Franklin county, Ill. in 1928 on charges of larceny and burglary and escaped after six months.

He held out his hand for a right turn while sled-riding. An automobile ran over the outstretched arm.

MRS. HUEY LONG IS APPOINTED U. S. SENATOR

Will Be The Second Woman To Sit In Senate

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Huey P. Long, widow of the late senator, late today was appointed to serve his unexpired senate term by Governor James A. Noe.

The appointment resulted from the death this week of Governor O. K. Allen, an associate of the late senator, who had been nominated for the unexpired term.

Mrs. Long had shown little interest in politics during the long and turbulent political career of her husband. Two women will sit in the United States senate for the first time in history when she takes her seat there.

Senator Hattie W. Caraway, who also succeeded her husband, is the lone woman member at present.

Informed in New Orleans of the appointment, Mrs. Long said "that's fine. That's very fine." She did not comment further.

Governor Noe, who became Louisiana's chief executive upon the death of Allen, predicted the Democratic state committee would also designate Mrs. Long for the unexpired term when it meets February 5.

The appointment covers the interim between the present date and the general election in April when the committee's designation would be effective.

"I have talked with Mrs. Long and she told me she would accept it," Governor Noe said.

The appointment created mild surprise in the state capital.

Will Not Attend Republican Meet In Springfield

Committee Chairman Oppose
Plan To Hand-Pick
Candidates

LaSalle, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—James E. Hill, chairman of the LaSalle County Republican Central committee, announced today he would not be present at the Springfield "harmony meeting" if it was the purpose of those sponsoring it to form a slate of hand-picked candidates before the primary.

The conference was called last night by Rep. LeRoy Green of Rockford, minority leader in the house. Invitations were extended to Republican committee chairman of 101 downstate counties.

Green said one of the aims of the conference was to pick a downstate man as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

"People are given the right to pick their own names under the constitution," Hill declared today. "They should not be deprived of that right."

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Victor McCubbin, chairman of the county central committee, said today he had informed a group of downstate Republicans "real Republicans in this vicinity will take no part in any meeting called to deprive the people of the right to select candidates."

"Since we are charging the Democratic party with dictatorship," McCubbin said, "we should not follow them. I have confidence in the judgment of Illinois voters, and after they have made their choice then it is the duty of all Republicans to elect the nominee."

The message was in answer to an invitation to confer with downstate groups in Springfield next week.

St. Albans, W. Va., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma Zeena Rucker, who says she is 108 years old, is spending the last of her days at the Kanawha County Infirmary with her two aged sons.

Mrs. Rucker declares she is "feeling right well."

"I'm 85 and feel fine," said Zeb Strickland, her oldest son.

"I'm 72 and still feel like working," said his brother George.

George proves his assertion by laboring daily around the infirmary grounds.

Mrs. Rucker, born in Logan county, came to Kanawha county at the age of eight.

Tax Program Calls For $730,000,000 to Offset Bonus and Farm Relief

By D. Harold Oliver
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A drive to enact at this session a new tax program, aimed at increasing federal revenues by around $730,000,000 to offset farm relief and bonus costs, was declared in high administration quarters today to be under consideration.

Even as this word spread, however, an indication of the program's apparent momentum in the house, emphasizing the possible difficulties of pressing new levies through congress in a campaign year. Details of the projected new revenue plan were lacking.

President Roosevelt nevertheless put congress definitely, if indirectly, on notice that at least $500,000,000 in new taxes would be needed for the new farm program. His notice coincided with the projection of plans by senate leaders for action next week on the two-year soil conservation subsidy bill to replace the AAA, and on huge appropriations to finance both that program and the $2,249,000,000 soldier debt.

The president made his announcement at a press conference. At the same time, another high administration authority let it be known consideration was being given taxes to raise another $230,000,000 annually to amortize the bonus through 1945, when the baby bonds mature.

It was generally believed that the farm taxes would be in the nature of re-entrenched levies under a new name—excise levies—and possibly made retroactive to July 1, 1935.

House and senate leaders obviously were not eager to talk about bonus tax prospects.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt sought to emphasize that the revenue for the farm program would be simply in the nature of a substitute for the processing taxes and therefore would not amount to additional taxation.

As for meeting expenses of the bonus cost, he said this was still under consideration. He said, however, that bonus needs would have to be decided now. Just before his regular cabinet meeting, the president went over the farm tax question with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, at a luncheon conference, but no further information was forthcoming for publication.

FUGITIVE IS CAUGHT WITH YOUNG WIFE

Met Farm Girl While In Act Of Stealing
Milk

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—George Singer, 34, a fugitive from the Jefferson City, Mo., honor farm, was seized today in the company of a young woman he said he wooed and won when he leaped the farm fence one day to milk her father's cows in the adjoining field.

Defective Edward Allman and James Zegar said they recognized Singer on the street, but it was he who stole with the comely girl he later presented as "Hazel, my wife."

They said Singer fled from the prison farm Dec. 31, 1935, while serving a life term for a $3,000 payroll robbery in St. Louis, Mo., in which Fred Solter, paymaster for a St. Louis Cold Storage company, was slain.

Defective Allman said he recognized Singer from fugitive posters and confirmed the identity by a dagger tattooed on his right arm. At the defective bureau both Singer and the young woman who said her maiden name was Wade, talked readily. Detective Allman quoted them thus:

"There were no cows on the honor farm," Singer said, "and some of the prisoners decided to milk the cows which Hazel's father kept in the next field. We drew straws for the job and I lost. So I hopped the fence and started milking when along came Hazel. It was love at first sight."

"After that the fellows didn't have to draw straws any more. I took the job. Some friends of mine promised to get me a parole by Christmas but Hazel and I wanted to get married right off. On Nov. 30, 1935, we took her father's fiver and were married in California, Mo."

"Then I went back to the farm to wait for the parole, but it didn't go through, so New Year's eve I climbed the fence again and brought Hazel to Chicago."

Detective Allman took up Hazel's story: "George and I met in April, 1935. We worked out a code with an electric flashlight. I would signal to him at night from our house on the hill—three short flashes if it was all right to come, two short if it wasn't. We met in the smoke house and I'd bring him fried chicken and cake. Later, we eloped."

The detectives notified Missouri authorities and Singer was held. Hazel insisted she wanted to remain with him.

He said he named the committee composed of himself, Col. Albert Culbertson, Delavan and Louis Moschel, Pekin, at the request of George Mitchell, Pekin, vice-president of the company.

Superintendent J. F. Barnard said that 50 office employees returned to their jobs today and arranged for distribution of $15,000 in salary checks, delayed when pickets forced the plant to close for 11 days.

Sheriff Ralph Goar and deputies continued to patrol the company grounds. A few pickets continued to parade peacefully in front of the plant despite the cold weather.

AUTO IS DESTROYED; OCCUPANTS ESCAPE

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 31.—(P)—An automobile which crashed into the side of a Wabash freight train at a grade crossing eight miles north of here today was destroyed, but the two occupants escaped with only minor injuries.

The car, driven by Albert Simon, 31, was dragged several hundred feet along the right of way and finally caught fire after Simon and his passenger, Charles McCune, 16, both of this city, had crawled to safety.

In another crash, near Lockport, a Santa Fe freight struck an automobile driven by George Walker, Park Ridge, Ill., and threw Harry Lynch, West Chicago, from the car. Neither was believed seriously injured.

MEETING POSTPONED

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—(P)—Lack of a quorum, the board of directors meeting of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce was postponed today. The mid-winter session of 36 directors was to have discussed policies on taxes and industrial legislation.

Thomas O. Coultas of the Markham neighborhood was a business visitor in the city yesterday.

BROKEN RAIL BLAMED FOR TRAIN WRECK

Three Persons Are Killed And Thirty-One Injured

Sunbury, Pa., Jan. 31.—(P)—Investigators emerged from a mass of sprawling, battered steel tonight with evidence that a broken rail hurtled the Reading company's light flir from a 30-foot bridge, killing three and injuring 31.

The locomotive thundered around a curve and hit the break last night as the bridge spanning the Susquehanna river was reached. With a roar and shower of fire and sparks it crashed on the banks of the stream. Three coaches followed it to the dry bed of the canal, and another lay squarely across a main highway. A fifth hung precariously from the side of the structure.

Dr. Joseph K. Fisher, the first physician on the scene, worked long-handed in the bitter cold for more than an hour on the most shocking job I've had in a quarter of a century.

There were so many cries for help that we didn't know which way to turn," the physician related. Dr. Guy Rothfuss, of Williamsport, the only passenger killed, "had almost every bone in his body shattered, I believe," Dr. Fisher said.

The others killed were Washington Denshaw, of Tamaqua, the fireman, and William Ramp, the engineer.

The train ripped away two spans of the bridge in its dive. Late today the combination mail and baggage car was still blocking the highway and traffic was detoured.

Two of the injured, Mrs. Clara Brownell, of Williamsport, and Fred Fulton, of Muncy, were reported in a serious condition at Sunbury's Mary Packer hospital. Ten were held at the hospital and the others were discharged.

Sixteen of the injured were students of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, homebound bound on "The Williamsporter" for a mid-year vacation.

Anna Leitzel, telephone operator, saw the wreck from her home in Sunbury. She said the engine stopped suddenly in a "blaze of sparks," then came a burst of fire as the ties of the bridge burst into flames. Both she and Herbert Beck, who also saw the engine topple off the bridge, called police and hospitals. Two firemen suffered frozen feet while fighting the blaze on the bridge.

Unreserved Endorsement Is Given Administration's Proposals

By Curtis R. Hay Associated Press Staff Writer Decatur, Ill., Jan. 30.—(P)—Declaring a constitutional amendment should be sought to achieve farm parity only if all alternatives failed, Illinois farmers today threw the weight of one of the nation's largest state organizations of agriculture behind the national administration's new farm plan.

Delegates and members of the Illinois Agricultural Association which has a membership of 63,000 farmers concluded their annual convention with unreserved endorsement of the New Deal's proposal for a substitute to the outlawed AAA.

The plan would provide production adjustment by soil conservation; expansion of markets for farm surpluses and increased warehouse receipt loans on farm commodities.

Heeding the wishes of a large bloc of the association which favored support immediately of a constitutional amendment to restore the agricultural adjustment act. The convention adopted a resolution which read:

"We reaffirm our faith in the established order of our government and in the ideals upon which government is founded, with only such modifications and changes in its organic laws as experience and mature judgment disclose as necessary to preserve its institutions, its established political and economic liberties and to secure and maintain proper economic balance and social justice as between all groups and classes."

Earl C. Smith, Detroit, Ill., president of the association interpreted the resolution to mean that "we will not resort to support of a constitutional amendment unless a full, exhaustive effort to attain farm parity under present interpretations of the constitution fails."

ESCAPED FROM PONTIAC

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 31.—(P)—Police said today that Ernest Balog, 27, arrested last week on larceny charges, admitted he had escaped from the Pontiac, Ill., reformatory.

Balog said he had married in Toledo five years ago and was the father of a four-year-old son. Since his escape, he said, he had lived "in constant fear."

Illinois authorities advised police here that Balog was sentenced to the reformatory from Franklin county, Ill. in 1928 on charges of larceny and burglary and escaped after six months.

DANGEROUS SIGNAL

Clarksburg, W. Va., Jan. 31.—(P)—Safety signals proved dangerous to 16-year-old John Voldick.

He held out his hand for a right turn while sled-riding. An automobile ran over the outstretched arm.

Convicts Plotted Murder Of R. Loeb

Prosecutor Says Declares Nathan Leopold May Have Had Part In Prison Crime

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 31.—(P)—State's Attorney W. R. McCabe asserted tonight his investigation had dug up new evidence buttressing his theory that Richard Loeb was slashed to death in a "deliberate murder plot" in which Nathan Leopold may have had a part.

He branded the statement by James Day, 23 year old robber, that he had wielded a razor on Loeb in self defense against improper advances by the slayer of Bobby Franks "obviously false and concocted before the murder was committed."

Though Day refused to budge from his account of Tuesday night's slaying when the prosecutor questioned him at the prison during the day, McCabe insisted "it is increasingly evident that Loeb was the victim of a plot and that Day was not its sole author."

"Loeb was tremendously popular throughout the prison. His partner in the Franks crime, Leopold, on the other hand because of his supercilious intellectual snobbery, is generally disliked," said McCabe.

"I shall work on the belief that Leopold or some other prisoners got fed up with Loeb's popularity—wanted his place in the general favor—and plotted this murder."

The prosecutor announced he had gathered the fresh facts in a three-hour interview with Edward Skepowski, cell partner of Loeb at the Stateville penitentiary. He said he also planned to question Leopold—confederate of Loeb in the 1924 murder of little Bobby Franks.

McCabe said Day made this reply to his insistence that he "tell the real story."

"I've told the real story. I've got a lawyer. I will talk no more until we go to court."

The prosecutor related how Day—suddenly confronted with photographs of the razor slashed body—covered his face with his hands and wept.

The state's attorney disclosed he would question inmates.

"Skepowski said Loeb never made any advances toward him and the only differences they ever had were over the loud speaker in their cell," the prosecutor said.

New Farm Plan Wins Support Of Illinois Farmers

LaSalle, Ill., Jan. 31.—(P)—James E. Hill, chairman of the LaSalle County Republican Central committee, announced today he would not be present at the Springfield "harmony meeting" if it was the purpose of those sponsoring it to form a slate of hand-picked candidates before the primary.

The conference was called last night by Rep. LeRoy Green of Rockford, minority leader in the house. Invitations were extended to Republican committee chairmen of 101 downstate counties.

Green said one of the aims of the conference was to pick a downstate man as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

"People are given the right to pick their own nominees under the constitution," Hill declared today. "They should not be deprived of that right."

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 31.—(P)—Victor McCormack, chairman of the county central committee, said today he had informed a group of downstate Republicans "real Republicans in this vicinity will take no part in any meeting called to deprive the people of the right to select candidates."

"Since we are charging the Democrats with dictatorship," McCormack said, "we should not follow them. I have confidence in the judgment of Illinois voters, and after they have made their choice then it is the duty of all Republicans to elect the nominee."

The message was in answer to an invitation to confer with downstate groups in Springfield next week.

WOMAN 108 YEARS OLD

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 31.—(P)—Mrs. Emma Zeena Rucker, who says she is 108 years old, is spending the last of her days at the Kanawha County Infirmary with her two aged sons.

Mrs. Rucker declares she is "feeling right well."

"I'm 85 and feel fine," said Zeb Strickland, her oldest son.

"I'm 72 and still feel like working," said his brother George.

George proves his assertion by laboring daily around the infirmary grounds.

Mrs. Rucker, born in Logan county, came to Kanawha county at the age of eight.

TRAINS COLLIDE

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—(P)—Because a switch was left open, two freight trains crashed in the Wabash yards here today, killing 14 sheep and wrecking two boxcars. GIVEN LIGHT SENTENCE

New York, Jan. 31.—(P)—Austin Phelps Palmer, 51, retired electrical engineer of Park avenue, today was sentenced to 90 days in the federal detention house for sending threatening letters to President Roosevelt.

The maximum penalties which Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson could have imposed were five years imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

MRS. HUEY LONG IS APPOINTED U.S. SENATOR

Will Be The Second Woman To Sit In Senate

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 31.—(P)—Mrs. Huey P. Long, widow of the late senator, late today was appointed to serve his unexpired senate term by Governor James A. Noe.

The appointment resulted from the death this week of Governor O. K. Allen, an associate of the late senator, who had been nominated for the unexpired term.

Mrs. Long had shown little interest in politics during the long and turbulent political career of her husband. Two women will sit in the United States senate for the first time in history when she takes her seat there.

Senator Hattie W. Caraway, who also succeeded her husband, is the lone woman member at present.

Informed in New Orleans of the appointment, Mrs. Long said "that's fine. That's very fine." She did not comment further.

Governor Noe, who became Louisiana's chief executive upon the death of Allen, predicted the Democratic state committee would also designate Mrs. Long for the unexpired term when it meets February 5.

The appointment covers the interim between the present date and the general election in April when the committee's designation would be effective.

"I have talked with Mrs. Long and she told me she would accept it," Governor Noe said.

The appointment created mild surprise in the state capital.

Committee Chairmen Oppose Plan To Hand-Pick Candidates

Tax Program Calls For $730,000,000 to Offset Bonus and Farm Relief

By D. Harold Oliver Associated Press Staff Writer Washington, Jan. 31.—(P)—A drive to enact at this session a new tax program, aimed at increasing federal revenues by around $730,000,000 to offset farm relief and bonus costs, was declared in high administration quarters today to be under consideration.

Even as this word spread, however, an inflation movement apparently gained momentum in the house, emphasizing the possible difficulties of pressing new levies through congress in a campaign year. Details of the projected new revenue plan were lacking.

President Roosevelt nevertheless put congress definitely. If indirectly, on notice that at least $500,000,000 in new taxes would be needed for the new farm program. His notice coincided with the projection of plans by senate leaders for action next week on the two-year soil-conservation subsidy bill to replace the AAA, and on huge appropriations to finance both that program and the $2,249,000,000 soldier debt.

The president made his announcement at a press conference. At the same time, another high administration authority let it be known consideration was being given taxes to raise another $230,000,000 annually to amortize the bonus through 1945, when the baby bonus matured.

It was generally believed that the farm taxes would be in the nature of re-enacted processing levies under a new name—excise levies—and possibly made retroactive to July 1, 1935.

House and senate leaders obviously were not eager to talk about bonus tax prospects.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt sought to emphasize that the revenue for the farm program would be simply in the nature of a substitute for the processing taxes and therefore would not amount to additional taxation.

As for meeting expenses of the bonus cost, he said this was still under study with no details decided upon. He did say, however, that bonus needs would have to be decided now.

Just before his regular cabinet meeting, the president went over the farm tax question with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, at a luncheon conference, but no further information was forthcoming for publication.

Marine Band Won't Play

When the nation's snappy and colorful Marine Band picked up its instruments and walked out of the session of the Patriotic Women's Conference on National Defense, without having played a note, it was a sorry spectacle. When a rear admiral of the Navy and a high ranking officer in the Marine Corps suddenly cancelled engagements to speak at the conference, it became evident that something was wrong. But when a Navy chaplain was ordered not to open a session of the conference with an invocation, the ladies knew that somebody's feelings had been dreadfully hurt.

The reason for all this shunning of the conference was soon found. Bainbridge Colby, sometime Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson, had given the ladies an address, in which he had attacked the New Deal and had criticized the administration. The New Dealers responded in typical fashion by withdrawing from the conference the privileges and entertainment every citizen of the nation has a right to expect when he visits the capital. No doubt the ladies wondered if Washington is still the capital for all the people, or only for those who agree with the New Deal. No one blames the officers of the band for the incident. They had their orders from higher up. Even the ranking officers who suddenly cancelled their speaking engagements were ordered to do so.

Evolution of Travel

Theobald Meizer, 55, died this week at his home in Galena. For a half century he was a traveling salesman for a wholesale grocery firm, and in that period of service, he saw and experienced the complete evolution in modes of travel. Meizer traveled on foot, behind oxteams, by horse and canal boat. He drove an automobile, and finally, two years ago, he chartered an airplane for one selling trip. When he began traveling, conditions made it necessary for him to use the most primitive modes of transportation at times. He of course used trains, doubtless traveling by rail most of the time, for he did most of his work during the "railway age." But the experience of this man indicates how rapidly the modes of transportation have changed. It is a long jump from ox-cart to airplane, from the day the opening of a canal was a historic event to the hour when a clipper ship whirled its way across the Pacific, but that jump has been made in the United States in the working span of a single human life.

Would Transfer School

The War Department has placed its support behind the Senate approved bill to transfer the Air Corps Technical school from Rantoul, Ill., to Denver. This would mean abandonment of Chanute Field, which has been an army air post for many years. The bill to transfer the school is now up for passage in the House. The War Department is supporting the move as a matter of economy. It is pointed out that, in order to establish proper facilities at the school, rebuilding is necessary. This can be done $400,000 cheaper at Denver than at Rantoul. Furthermore the Denver site affords a bombing range, and flying conditions are better the year round in the clearer Colorado atmosphere. This practical reason appears to dictate that an Illinois city shall lose a valuable asset. Efforts have been made to save the air field for Rantoul, but the advantages of a move seem to outweigh any local considerations. Such misfortunes come to all cities, even to the loss of entire industries through economic changes, and they must be borne with resignation. Perhaps Rantoul will find some enterprise to replace the air school.

The Light Turned On

The killing of Richard Loeb in a Stateville prison shower bath by a convict who claims self defense has started a train of investigations which may lead any where or nowhere. Every power that has any right to get into the affair is pushing a probe into the entire state prison system. The latest development is the alleged unearthing of a prison plot to kill Loeb, which may be without foundation. The sordid killing has set in motion forces that will likely cost some high places in the state. Heads may fall, and the political reactions may be rather important. But it is hoped the real purpose of any investigation will not be lost in the shuffle. That purpose should be to clean up prison life insofar as that is possible, and to eradicate any favoritism which may exist inside penitentiary walls. If it is true that Leopold and Loeb had a private bath, that they were allowed free run of the prison and could influence the prison government with their wealth, the entire matter should be exposed and cleared up. The punishment of James Day, the killer of Loeb, has become a secondary matter. Unless it is proved that he deliberately murdered the onetime "thrill" slayer, he will no doubt get a light sentence. But the major attention will be given to the conduct of state prisons as reflected in the crime. Investigations should be conducted with fairness to all and without attempts to make political capital out of the wretched affair.

Failure Spices Success

John Barrymore, nearing his 53d birthday, gives the world a good bit of philosophy to mark the occasion. And John's words should be worth studying—he has lived a lot. Says the noted actor: "Every split second of my life has been worth it, and I'll tell you why. An event in your life is like a gold coin with two sides. On the other side of a failure there's success. To be hit and knocked down flat by a great tragedy gives me the capacity to be lifted to the skies by a great happiness." It's a philosophy that applies all the way down the human scale. A lot of us acquired a bit of this outlook during the last five years, when men and events generally were skidding off the easy roads. And we can use a lot more.

Note In Uncle Sam's Eye

Nazi newspapers, pointing to the departure from the U. S. to Europe of Colonel Lindbergh, are making the most of the story these days to clinch the supremacy of Hitlerized justice. From the president of the Academy of German Law down to the humblest editorial writer on legal subjects, Lindbergh's journey to England is regarded as proof beyond doubt that our democratic justice is a blundering farce, whereas Nazi justice is the acme of perfection. This reaction of the German press, however, is to be expected, and obviously was engineered by the propaganda machine of the Hitler government. But so far as America is concerned, the viewpoint can be only highly amusing. It is only half of the story, and warbled at that. The other half concerns the reason why Herr Albert Einstein, driven from his native Germany, is applying for American citizenship.

THUNDER ON THE OTHER SIDE

Behind The Scenes In Washington

Is Ickes the Man to Thank if Soil Conservation Is a Success... He Plugged for the Move, Wrote the Bill, and Then It Was All Snatched Away From Him... But Interior Secretary Still Has Control of U. S. Rum.

By RODNEY DUTCHER (Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent) Washington.—It might seem funny if Congress and the administration had had to turn the business of saving the farmers over to Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, but the idea isn't as absurd as some people might suppose it to be. The attempt to graft the AAA onto the soil conservation act is of special interest to Ickes and his pals, because Ickes conceived the conservation plan, sold it by making the public "soil erosion conscious," built the Soil Erosion Service, wrote the act, lobbied it through congressional committees, and then the whole show was snatched away from him just before final vote on the act. The old NIRA, in its public works section, provided for erosion control. PWA was trying hard to get some money spent. Feeding cash into rural areas proved especially difficult. Ickes was especially concerned with erosion, because it had damaged Indian lands under his care, so he decided to allot $5,000,000 to proving erosion could be controlled. As chief of the project, he appointed H. H. Bennett, who for 25 years had been shouting—unheeded—the dangers of erosion.

Big Scramble for Money

Most bureaus in the Department of Agriculture fought for control of the five million. Unable to decide rival claims of the Forest Service, Extension Service, the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, Chemistry and Soils, and others, Undersecretary Tugwell finally concurred with Ickes' idea that the new service be kept in the Interior Department. Plans were laid. William A. F. Stephenson was named chief of operations in January, 1934, and by June the SES was spending $800,000 a month and was busy with 4000 employees on 40 projects of erosion control. Ickes boosted the allotment to $20,000,000. The force was doubled by fall. Ickes and his subordinates preached erosion control, reams of propaganda were sent out, the country began to get the idea, and soon nearly every farm county was hollering for a demonstration project. Timing his plan with the first big dust storm, Ickes decided the service should be permanent and had legislation drafted. His men preached the idea to Congress and his bill was reported favorably.

Ickes Is "Looted"

Then some persons in the Agriculture department got to working under cover. One day while Ickes was in Florida, Roosevelt authorized Tugwell to introduce a resolution to transfer funds and personnel to Agriculture. At a meeting of the special public works board, the board, of which Ickes was chairman, voted the transfer unanimously. Roosevelt signed an order to that effect. Ickes read about it in the newspapers. The bill, setting up the Soil Conservation Service, was amended by substituting "Agriculture" for "Interior" at the last minute. The Ickes group thinks the service hasn't amounted to anything since. But the fact that he act is being administered under Secretary Wallace saved the administration from having to appeal to Ickes for an act under which to operate a farm program. Ickes was complaining in a dinner speech the other night, with Secretary Wallace sitting beside him, that Agriculture had taken away so many of its activities that Interior hardly had anything left. "One day I went away for a few days," Ickes asserted, "and when I came back a van was backed up at our building, moving out the Soil Erosion Service." But Ickes still has rum. "Harold Harold," however, still has control of what his lieutenants call "The New Deal's chief liquid asset"—250,000 gallons of rum made by the government's Virgin Islands Company. A lot more going into the barrels this season. The first "government rum" is now two years old and will be on sale in about four months. Ickes has an idea it may turn out to be America's most popular drink. It hasn't been decided yet whether the rum should be sold cheap or whether it would be better to charge all the traffic will bear. If you're interested in the issue, better write your congressman. The stuff costs only 30 cents a gallon to make. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Art Thatcher Has Letter From King

Former Prince of Wales Thanked Jerseyville Man for Book

White Hall.—One of the hobbies of the new king of England following the close of the World war consisted of the collection of data from even the remotest sections of the world apart from England, bearing upon the activities taken by countries and localities in the prosecution of the war. This matter was catalogued and filed in the Royal War Museum at South Kensington. King Edward, then Prince of Wales, was president of the board of trustees. Information that a history of Jersey county participation in the World war had been published was obtained by the prince and his consorts and on July 14, 1927, a request was sent to the publisher, Arthur Thatcher, requesting a copy for the Imperial War Museum to be placed among the records in the library. The history was furnished by Thatcher and a letter of thanks from the Prince of Wales followed. The letter is still in Thatcher's possession. The Jersey county history of the locality's part in the war covered all activities of county units, Red Cross, Liberty Loan organizations, etc. The book was illustrated with photographs of the men from the county lost in action and in camp, and contained brief sketches of battle front experiences of many of the men who lived to tell the story. (Mr. Thatcher is Jacksonville Journal and Courier correspondent in Jerseyville.)—Ed.

SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE
The old adage that "truth is stranger than fiction" is given ample confirmation in "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Gene Raymond's new picture. The blond Raymond enacts the role of a successful writer of adventure stories. Retreating to a supposedly deserted mountain inn in midwinter to turn out a new book, he plunges headlong into a foreboding of rangers and other mysterious persons whose frantic pursuit of an elusive fortune leads to far stranger incidents than he had created for his own novels. With this exciting plot as a basis around which are woven a charming romance and unnumbered comedy situations, "Seven Keys to Baldpate" provides a brand-new type of thrill for the picturegoer. Its spooky atmosphere and the snowy setting of the Adirondacks make the film vividly realistic, and a notable cast including Margaret Clallahan, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Eric Blore, Moroni Olsen, Grant Mitchell and Ray Mayer contribute to the acting excellence of the production. ROSE OF THE RANCHO
John Boles and Gladys Swarthout, glamorous singing star of opera and radio, in a scene from Paramount's musical romance, "ROSE OF THE RANCHO."
A businesslike Bowie knife, intended as a movie "prop," proved all too realistic for Gladys Swarthout during production of her first motion picture. The brunett Metropolitan opera star, featured in the Paramount musical, "Rose of the Rancho," was supposed to use the knife in cutting a rope that bound John Boles, her co-star. On the first attempt, Miss Swarthout failed to cut the rope but she did succeed in cutting her right forefinger. After first aid treatment at the studio hospital, she finished the scene and the rope was severed without further mishap. On another occasion, Boles was handed a revolver by a "props" man. He began flourishing it realistically off the set and Miss Swarthout suggested that he might exercise care—that the thing might be loaded. Boles laughed and said: "Certainly it's not loaded! Watch!" He aimed the gun at a window and pulled the trigger. The blank cartridge all but shattered the glass and shocked both Boles and Miss Swarthout. The actor summoned the "props" man and told him hereafter to bring a loaded revolver, so he'd know he had to be careful. "Rose of the Rancho" is a colorful drama of Southern California in the days when California was first admitted to the union. The locale is the old Spanish city of Monterey at fiesta time, with the opera star cast as the daughter of a wealthy Spanish don. The picture opens Sunday at the FOX ILLINOIS. Marine Band Won't Play

When the nation's snappy and colorful Marine Band picked up its instruments and walked out of the session of the Patriotic Women's Conference on National Defense, without having played a note, it was a sorry spectacle. When a rear admiral of the Navy and a high ranking officer in the Marine Corps suddenly cancelled engagements to speak at the conference, it became evident that something was wrong. But when a Navy chaplain was ordered not to open a session of the conference with an invocation, the ladies knew that somebody's feelings had been dreadfully hurt.

The reason for all this shunning of the conference was soon found. Bainbridge Colby, sometime Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson, had given the ladies an address, in which he had attacked the New Deal and had criticized the administration. The New Dealers responded in typical fashion by withdrawing from the conference the privileges and entertainment every citizen of the nation has a right to expect when he visits the capital. No doubt the ladies wondered if Washington is still the capital for all the people, or only for those who agree with the New Deal. No one blames the officers of the band for the incident. They had their orders from higher up. Even the ranking officers who suddenly cancelled their speaking engagements were ordered to do so.

Evolution of Travel

Theobald Metzger, 85, died this week at his home in Galena. For a half century he was a traveling salesman for a wholesale grocery firm, and in that period of service, he saw and experienced the complete evolution in modes of travel.

Metzger traveled on foot, behind ox-teams, by horse and canal boat. He drove an automobile, and finally, two years ago, he chartered an airplane for one selling trip. When he began traveling, conditions made it necessary for him to use the most primitive modes of transportation at times. He of course used trains, doubtless traveling by rail most of the time, for he did most of his work during the "railway age."

But the experience of this man indicates how rapidly the modes of transportation have changed. It is a long jump from ox-cart to airplane, from the day the opening of a canal was a historic event to the hour when a clipper ship winged its way across the Pacific, but that jump has been made in the United States in the working span of a single human life.

Would Transfer School

The War Department has placed its support behind the Senate approved bill to transfer the Air Corps Technical school from Rantoul, Ill., to Denver. This would mean abandonment of Chanute Field, which has been an army air post for many years.

The bill to transfer the school is now up for passage in the House. The War Department is supporting the move as a matter of economy. It is pointed out that, in order to establish proper facilities at the school, rebuilding is necessary. This can be done $400,000 cheaper at Denver than at Rantoul. Furthermore the Denver site affords a bombing range, and flying conditions are better the year round in the clearer Colorado atmosphere.

Thus practical reasons appear to dictate that an Illinois city shall lose a valuable asset. Efforts have been made to save the air field for Rantoul, but the advantages of a move seem to outweigh any local considerations. Such misfortunes come to all cities, even to the loss of entire industries through economic changes, and they must be borne with resignation. Perhaps Rantoul will find some enterprise to replace the air school.

The Light Turned On

The killing of Richard Loeb in a Stateville prison shower bath by a convict who claims self defense has started a train of investigations which may lead any where or nowhere. Every power that has any right to get into the affair is pushing a probe into the entire state prison system. The latest development is the alleged unearthing of a prison plot to kill Loeb, which may be without foundation.

The sordid killing has set in motion forces that will likely cost some high places in the state. Heads may fall, and the political reactions may be rather important. But it is hoped the real purpose of any investigation will not be lost in the shuffle.

That purpose should be to clean up prison life insofar as that is possible, and to eradicate any favoritism which may exist inside penitentiary walls. If it is true that Leopold and Loeb had a private bath, that they were allowed free run of the prison and could influence the prison government with their wealth, the entire matter should be exposed and cleared up.

The punishment of James Day, the killer of Loeb, has become a secondary matter. Unless it is proved that he deliberately murdered the onetime "thrill" slayer, he will no doubt get a light sentence. But the major attention will be given to the conduct of state prisons as reflected in the crime. Investigations should be conducted with fairness to all and without attempts to make political capital out of the wretched affair.

Failure Spices Success

John Barrymore, nearing his 53d birthday, gives the world a good bit of philosophy to mark the occasion. And John's words should be worth studying—he has lived a lot. Says the noted actor:

"Every split second of my life has been worth it, and I'll tell you why. An event in your life is like a gold coin with two sides. On the other side of a failure there's success. To be hit and knocked down flat by a great tragedy gives me the capacity to be lifted to the skies by a great happiness."

It's a philosophy that applies all the way down the human scale. A lot of us acquired a bit of this outlook during the last five years, when men and events generally were skidding off the easy roads. And we can use it a lot more.

The world is still crowded with folks working overtime at the failure side of their gold coin.

Mote in Uncle Sam's Eye

Nazi newspapers, pointing to the departure from the U. S. to Europe of Colonel Lindbergh, are making the most of the story these days to clinch the supremacy of Hitlerized justice. From the president of the Academy of German Law down to the humblest editorial writer on legal subjects, Lindbergh's journey to England is regarded as proof beyond doubt that our democratic justice is a blundering farce, whereas Nazi justice is the acme of perfection.

This reaction of the German press, however, is to be expected, and obviously was engineered by the propaganda machine of the Hitler government. But so far as America is concerned, the viewpoint can be only highly amusing.

It is only half of the story, and garbled at that. The other half concerns the reason why Herr Albert Einstein, driven from his native Germany, is applying for American citizenship.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

Ikkes Is the Man to Thank if Soil Conservation Is a Success... He Plugged for the Move, Wrote the Bill, and Then It Was All Snatched Away From Him... But Interior Secretary Still Has Control of U. S. Rum.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
(Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent)

Washington—It might seem funny if Congress and the administration had had to turn the business of saving the farmers over to Interior Secretary Harold Ikkes, but the idea isn't as absurd as some people might suppose it to be.

The attempt to graft the AAA onto the soil conservation act is of especial interest to Ikkes and his pals, because Ikkes conceived the conservation plan, sold it by making the public "soil erosion conscious," built the Soil Erosion Service, wrote the act, lobbied it through congressional committees—and then the whole show was snatched away from him just before final vote on the act.

The old NIRA, in its public works section, provided for erosion control. PWA was trying hard to get some money spent. Feeding cash into rural areas proved especially difficult. Ikkes was especially concerned with erosion, because it had damaged Indian lands under his care, so he decided to allot $5,000,000 to proving erosion could be controlled. As chief of the project, he appointed H. H. Bennett, who for 25 years had been shouting—unheeded—the dangers of erosion.

Big Scramble for Money

Most bureaus in the Department of Agriculture fought for control of the five million. Unable to decide rival claims of the Forest Service, Extension Service, the Bureau of Agricultural Engineering, Chemistry and Soils, and others, Undersecretary Tugwell finally concurred with Ikkes' idea that the new service be kept in the Interior Department.

Plans were laid. William A. F. Stephenson was named chief of operations in January, 1934, and by June the SES was spending $800,000 a month and was busy with 4000 employees on 40 projects of erosion control.

Ikkes boosted the allotment to $20,000,000. The force was doubled by fall.

Ikkes and his subordinates preached erosion control, reams of propaganda were sent out, the country began to get the idea, and soon nearly every farm county was hollering for a demonstration project.

Timing his plan with the first big dust storm, Ikkes decided the service should be permanent and had legislation drafted. His men preached the idea to Congress and his bill was reported favorably.

Ikkes Is "Looted"

Then some persons in the Agriculture department got to working under cover. One day while Ikkes was in Florida, Roosevelt authorized Tugwell to introduce a resolution to transfer funds and personnel to Agriculture, at a meeting of the special public works board.

Ikkes was complaining in a dinner speech the other night, with Secretary Wallace sitting beside him, that Agriculture had taken away so many of its activities that Interior hardly had anything left.

"One day I went away for a few days," Ikkes asserted, "and when I came back a van was backed up at our building, moving out the Soil Erosion Service."

But Ikkes Still Has Rum

"Honest Harold," however, still has control of what his lieutenants call "The New Deal's chief liquid asset"—250,000 gallons of rum made by the government's Virgin Islands Company. A lot more going into the barrels this season.

The first "government rum" is now two years old and will be on sale in about four months. Ikkes has an idea it may turn out to be America's most popular drink.

It hasn't been decided yet whether the rum should be sold cheap, or whether it would be better to charge all the traffic will bear. If you're interested in the issue, better write your congressman. The stuff costs only 30 cents a gallon to make.

Art Thatcher Has Letter From King

Former Prince of Wales Thanked Jerseyville Man for Book

White Hall.—One of the hobbies of the new king of England following the close of the World war consisted of the collection of data from even the remotest sections of the world apart from England, bearing upon the activities taken by countries and localities in the prosecution of the war.

This matter was catalogued and filed in the Royal War Museum at South Kensington. King Edward, then Prince of Wales, was president of the board of trustees.

Information that a history of Jersey county's participation in the World war had been published was obtained by the prince and his courtiers and on July 14, 1927, a request was sent to the publisher, Arthur Thatcher, requesting a copy for the Imperial War Museum to be placed among the records in the library.

The history was furnished by Thatcher and a letter of thanks from the Prince of Wales followed. The letter is still in Thatcher's possession.

The Jersey county history of the locality's part in the war covered all activities of county units, Red Cross, Liberty Loan organizations, etc. The book was illustrated with photographs of the men from the county lost in action and in camp, and contained brief sketches of battle front experiences of many of the men who lived to tell the story.

Gala Dessert Saves Plain Meal from Being Ordinary

By MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

This is to be a little dissertation on the importance of desserts. They can lift a meal out of the every-day class more effectively than any other one dish with sprigs of parsley and serve in baking dish. Turnip cups filled with buttered peas make an attractive vegetable. We had head lettuce with Roquefort cheese dressing, but a shredded cab-dish in the menu. Even a dinner built around left-overs rises to the rank of a feast if a glorified dessert is served at the end. On the theory that final impressions are the ones that stay with us.

The other evening I used up the remnants of a leg of lamb. For a change and in order to give the family the full benefit of the dessert, I served dinner buffet fashion, like a party. I had a bowl of salad, an extra vegetable, the main dish and the dessert arranged with dinner and dessert plates on the buffet for each to serve himself. The table was set and I served the coffee as usual. It wasn't a bit more work and we enjoyed the departure from the usual order.

Spanish Lamb
Two tablespoons butter, 2 small onions, 1 green pepper, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 3 cups cooked rice, 1 cup diced lamb, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Melt butter and add onions peeled and thinly sliced and pepper finely shredded. Cook over a low fire for five minutes. Stir over flour and stir until blended. Add tomatoes and cook until thick and smooth. Stir in rice, meat, salt and pepper and turn into a baking dish. Sprinkle with grated cheese and put in a moderate oven until the cheese is melted. Garbage salad with French dressing would be just as good if your family doesn't like Roquefort cheese. I concentrated on the dessert, which was orange coconut fruit pie. It was very imposing and my family never realized that it was only a variation of the old standby lemon meringue.

Orange Coconut Fruit Pie

Three-fourths cup granulated sugar.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Stewed diced apricots, codfish balls with egg sauce, corn pone, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Lentil soup, croquettes, banana and peanut salad, rye bread, filled cookies, milk, tea.
DINNER: Spanish lamb, turnip cups filled with buttered peas, head lettuce with Roquefort cheese dressing, orange coconut fruit pie, milk, coffee.

1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 11 cups water, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler. Stir in water, keeping mixture free from lumps. Cook and stir over direct flame for five minutes. Add egg yolks, slightly beaten and cook five minutes longer over rapidly boiling water, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add fruit juice and rind. Chill. Turn into baked pie shell and cover with the following:

Whites 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, dash salt, 2 tablespoons water, 1 orange, 1 cup moist sweetened coconut.

Put whites of eggs, sugar, salt and water in top of double boiler. Beat with a rotary beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat one minute. Remove from fire and continue beating until mixture will stand up in peaks about a minute longer. Pile lightly on filling. Peel orange and separate into sections, removing membranes. Arrange on meringue and sprinkle with coconut.

Sketch of Jacob Strawn Published In New Biography

Life of "Cattle King" Given Prominent Space in New Edition

A new edition of the Dictionary of American Biography, published under auspices of the American Council of Learned Societies, contains a sketch of the life of Jacob Strawn, who was known as "Cattle King" in the early days of Morgan county. The forthcoming edition of the Dictionary of American Biography is the eighteenth volume of the series published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

Many descendants of Jacob Strawn reside in Morgan county today. The sketch contained in the new book follows:

Strawn, Jacob (May 30, 1806-Aug. 23, 1885), cattleman and farmer, was of English-Welsh descent, the sixth and youngest child of Isaiah and Rachel (Reed) Strawn, who were Quakers. His great-grandfather, Lancelot Strawn, had settled in Pennsylvania in the first decade of the eighteenth century. Jacob was born and spent his first seventeen years on his father's farm in Somerset county, Pa. Attending the district school for a few months each winter, he received a meager education. In 1817 he moved with his parents to central Ohio. After working for his father until 1819, he settled on a nearby farm and began farming and dealing in live stock for himself. In 1821 he bought 395 acres of land about four miles southwest of Jacksonville, Ill. Moving to this farm in May, 1831, he began the operations which earned for him the title of "cattle king," extending his holdings in Morgan, Sangamon, and LaSalle counties until he held over 20,000 acres, chiefly in two tracts.

Except for the first few years, when he raised wheat and engaged in milling and butchering, he devoted his Illinois land to timber, pasture, and corn. In 1854 he raised 2,900 acres of corn, all of which was fed to stock, and owned 2,900 cattle, 750 hogs, and more than 200 head of horses and mules. Later he was reported to have fattened more than 8,000 cattle in one year. He introduced into Illinois the practice of feeding stock corn to cattle. He bred few cattle, preferring to buy, fatten, and sell. On horseback he scoured central and southern Illinois, Missouri, and the settled parts of Iowa for feeder cattle which he drove to his Illinois farms. Here they were fattened for the markets in the East, New Orleans, and St. Louis. For several years he largely controlled the cattle market at St. Louis. On one occasion, to thwart a conspiracy of buyers to break his hold on that market, he sent agents out on all the roads leading into the city and bought all incoming herds. He broke the combination in two days and had no more difficulty of that kind. After 1850 he began to confine himself largely to grading and feeding and to market more of his cattle at home.

In the last few years of his life he curtailed his operations. Possessed of a powerful physique and a strong constitution, he was an active man, spending most of his time outdoors, much of it in the saddle. He believed in hard work and in frugal, simple living, despised show, was plain in dress and rough in speech. He was scrupulously honest, prompt in his dealings, sympathetic toward those in distress, had a strong sense of honor, and commanded universal respect.

Although he made no profession of religion, he was sympathetic toward it. He abstained from the use of tobacco and liquor and declined to accept the latter to his harvest workers. He was a Whig and a Republican, but sought no office. During the Civil War he actively supported the Union and aided in relief work among Union troops. In 1819 he married Matilda Green, daughter of John Green, a Baptist minister of Licking county, Ohio. She died in 1831 after having borne seven children. The following year he married Phoebe Gates, daughter of Samuel Gates of Greene county, Ill. By this marriage he had five sons and a daughter. He was buried in the Diamond Grove cemetery, Jacksonville, Ill.

13 BELOW MAY BE UNLUCKY FOR COLD

Hoodoo Number Registers on Thermometer Friday

Thirteen below Friday morning! Each morning for ten days it has been "below"—six, eight, seventeen and eighteen. But never thirteen until yesterday morning, that is, thirteen for a 24-hour low.

Persons with a trace of superstition in their makeup will derive some satisfaction from today's report. Thirteen and bad luck are commonly known as close associates. So putting two and two together, yesterday morning's temperature may bring bad luck for the persistent cold wave.

Slowly rising temperature is predicted for today, so that the official reading Friday may have been the magical number that will cause the sun to shine brighter and give February a warm reception.

Mustard gas is not affected by being buried in earth, so digging in a saturated area is dangerous.

BEBUILDING GROUNDHOG TRYING TO DECIDE WHETHER HE
(1) sees his shadow, or
(2) doesn't see his shadow
If he does—so says the legend—he'll go back in his hole for six weeks (shadow means more cold weather coming). If he doesn't see his shadow, he will conclude spring is just round the corner.

YOU could make your decision about the weather to come as the groundhog does—but wisdom, and Weather Bureau records, say—"Give your car a Mid-Winter inspection, now!"
There are still plenty of freezing days ahead—and consider what your car has been through already! Your battery has undergone a terrific strain. Crankcase oil, transmission and differential lubricants have had to do extra duty on cold nights and mornings. Your starter has probably done more work in the last two months than it did all last summer.

Be sure your car is right. Know the answers to the questions below... These are things that Cheerful Stan, the Standard Serviceman, will be glad to check and fix up for you, quickly, courteously and expertly.
(All you say to him is "Give my car your Mid-Winter Inspection Service"... He does the rest.)

1. Are all your spark plugs giving a good, healthy spark? ... Cheerful Stan has a spark plug tester that gives a sure-fire (or no-fire) answer on each one.
2. Is the anti-freeze solution now in your radiator adequate for another sudden drop? ... Cheerful Stan's hydrometer can give you the answer.
3. Is your battery going strong? ... Cheerful Stan will test it, add certified water if needed or recharge it in 24 hours if it's weak.
4. Fan belt slipping?—Hose connections tight?—Has the insulation on the wiring developed any worn spots? ...
5. What is the condition of your motor oil?—Is it the correct grade for winter driving?
6. What's the level of the lubricants in your transmission and differential?
7. Are your tires correctly inflated?—Are any of them worn so smooth that they constitute a real menace?
8. Does your oil filter need changing?
9. Is your windshield wiper working right? (There's snow on the way before April.)

And, of course, Standard Servicemen take no tips!

Gala Dessert Saves Plain Meal from Being Ordinary

By MARY E. DAGUE

This is to be a little dissertation on the importance of desserts. They can lift a meal out of the every-day class more effectively than any other one dish in the menu. Even a dinner built around left-overs rises to the rank of a feast if a glorified dessert is served at the end. On the theory that final impressions are the ones that stay with us.

The other evening I used up the remnants of a leg of lamb. For a change and in order to give the family the full benefit of the dessert, I served dinner buffet fashion, like a party. I had a bowl of salad, an extra vegetable, the main dish and the dessert arranged with dinner and dessert plates on the buffet for each to serve himself. The table was set and I served the coffee as usual. It wasn't a bit more work and we enjoyed the departure from the usual order.

Spanish Lamb
Two tablespoons butter, 2 small onions, 1 green pepper, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 3 cups cooked rice, 1 cup dried lamb, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons grated cheese.

Melt butter and add onions peeled and thinly sliced and pepper finely shredded. Cook over a low fire for five minutes. Sift over flour and stir until blended. Add tomatoes and cook until thick and smooth. Stir in rice, meat, salt and pepper and turn into a baking dish. Sprinkle with grated cheese and put in a moderate oven until the cheese is melted. Gar-

BREAKFAST: Stewed diced apricots, codfish balls with egg sauce, corn pone, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Lentil soup, croustons, banana and peanut salad, rye bread, filled cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER: Spanish lamb, turnip cups filled with buttered peas, head lettuce with Roquefort cheese dressing, orange coconut fruit pie, milk, coffee.

1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of double boiler. Stir in water, keeping mixture free from lumps. Cook and stir over direct flame for five minutes. Add egg yolks slightly beaten and cook five minutes longer over rapidly boiling water, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add fruit juice and rind. Chill. Turn into baked pie shell and cover with the following:

Whites, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, dash salt, 2 tablespoons water, 1 orange, 1 cup moist sweetened coconut.

Put whites of eggs, sugar, salt and water in top of double boiler. Beat with a rotary beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat one minute. Remove from fire and continue beating until mixture will stand up in peaks, about a minute longer. Pile lightly on filling. Peel orange and separate into sections, removing membrane. Arrange on meringue and sprinkle with coconut.

Sketch of Jacob Strawn Published In New Biography

Life of "Cattle King" Given Prominent Space in New Edition

A new edition of the Dictionary of American Biography, published under auspices of the American Council of Learned Societies, contains a sketch of the life of Jacob Strawn, who was known as "Cattle King" in the early days of Morgan county. The forthcoming edition of the Dictionary of American Biography is the eighteenth volume of the series published by Charles Scribner's Sons.

Many descendants of Jacob Strawn reside in Morgan county today. The sketch contained in the new book follows:

Strawn, Jacob (May 30, 1800-Aug. 23, 1885) cattleman and farmer, was of English-Welsh descent, the sixth and youngest child of Isiah and Rachel (Reed) Strawn, who were Quakers. His great-grandfather, Lancelot Straughan, had settled in Pennsylvania in the first decade of the eighteenth century. Jacob was born and spent his first seventeen years on his father's farm in Somerset county, Pa. Attending the district school for a few months each winter, he received a meager education. In 1817 he moved with his parents to central Ohio. After working for his father until 1819, he settled on a nearby farm and began farming and dealing in live stock for himself. In 1823 he bought 395 acres of land about four miles southwest of Jacksonville, Ill. Moving to this farm in May, 1831, he began the operations which earned for him the title of "cattle king," extending his holdings in Morgan, Sangamon, and LaSalle counties until he held over 20,000 acres, chiefly in two tracts.

Except for the first few years, when he raised wheat and engaged in milling and butchering, he devoted his Illinois land to timber, pasture, and corn. In 1854 he raised 2,900 acres of corn, all of which was fed to stock, and owned 2,000 cattle, 700 hogs, and more than a hundred horses and mules. Later he was reputed to have fattened more than 5,000 cattle in one year. He introduced into Illinois the practice of feeding stock corn to cattle. He bred fine cattle, preferring to buy, fatten, and sell. On horseback he scoured central and southern Illinois, Missouri, and the settled parts of Iowa for feeder cattle which he drove to his Illinois farms. Here they were fattened for the markets in the East, New Orleans, and St. Louis. For several years he largely controlled the cattle market at St. Louis. On one occasion, to thwart a conspiracy of buyers to break his hold on that market, he sent agents out on all the roads leading into the city and bought all incoming herds. He broke the combination in two days and had no more difficulty of that kind. After 1850 he began to confine himself largely to grazing and feeding and to market more of his cattle at home.

In the last few years of his life he curtailed his operations. Possessed of a powerful physique and a strong constitution, he was an active man, spending most of his time outdoors, much of it in the saddle. He believed in hard work and in frugal, simple living, despised show, was plain in dress and rough in speech. He was scrupulously honest, prompt in his dealings, sympathetic toward those in distress, had a strong sense of honor, and commanded universal respect. Although he made no profession of religion, he was sympathetic toward it. He abstained from the use of tobacco and liquor, and declined to serve the latter to his harvest workers. He was a Whig and a Republican, but sought no office. During the Civil war he actively supported the Union and aided in relief work among Union troops. In 1819 he married Matilda Green, daughter of John Green, a Baptist minister of Licking county, Ohio. She died in 1831 after having borne seven children. The following year he married Phoebe Gates, daughter of Samuel Gates of Greene county, Ill. By this marriage he had five sons and a daughter. He was buried in the Diamond Grove cemetery, Jacksonville, Ill.

Walker Down With Injury; Speed Wins

Agger Directs Crimson As They Put Over Hard Fought Victory

Ashland's fondest hopes, those of beating Jacksonville high's rampaging Crimson, were throttled in a burst of speed on the David Prince court last night as John Agger, substituting for Coach Frank Walker, who was stricken with a back injury Friday morning and forced to remain in bed at home, directed the team to a 31 to 16 victory.

Coach Walker's injury, painful but not serious, laid the coach low Friday night after he made a gallant attempt to carry on his work in the high school during the morning. It was diagnosed by his physician as being a loosening of the hips, the two pelvic bones squeaking against the nerves which governed his leg actions. The coach will be required to wear a brace for some time, but is expected to be back in charge of his great team by the middle of next week.

Roodhouse is Winner Over White Hall 5

Meet Hillview In Final Of Annual Greene County Tourney Tonight

Scores Last Night

Roodhouse 28, White Hall 25.	Hillview 38, Rockbridge 16.
Games Tonight
7:30 p. m.—White Hall vs. Rockbridge.
8:30 p. m.—Hillview vs. Roodhouse.

Roodhouse, Jan. 31.—In one of the wildest, hardest fought upsets of the season, Roodhouse tonight handed White Hall its second defeat of the season and eliminated them from the championship division of the Greene county tournament 28 to 25. Blasting their way into the lead in the third quarter, Roodhouse outlasted a determined White Hall drive in the final quarter to spill the dope before one of the largest crowds to see a basketball game here in history.

Roodhouse, by virtue of their victory, will meet Hillview, a jinx team to them, in the finals of the annual tournament. Hillview came through impressively against Rockbridge, 38 to 16, to enter the final round. White Hall and Rockbridge, losers in the semi-final round, will fight it out for third place.

Both Roodhouse and White Hall lost players during the heat of the battle as the officials flew off 40 personal fouls. Smith, center, and Roodhouse, guard, went out of the Roodhouse line-up, while White Hall's loss of Dean Fair, ace scorer, "Red" King and T. J. Woodward, all on fouls tossed, had havoc in the last machine which had rolled up 13 victories against a single defeat before tumbling before an inspired Roodhouse team.

Smashing off to a 9 to 4 lead at the end of the first quarter, White Hall saw the beginning of a losing battle in the second period when Roodhouse crawled to a 12-9 score at the end of the first half. Continuing their sweep in the third quarter, Roodhouse took the lead amid a deafening din, 19 to 15 at the end of the third quarter, and then battled the Maroons short and for shot down the final stretch.

"Weenie" Holmes, diminutive forward, was the hot spot, pitching in 12 points from all over the court to lead the scoring. "Alley-Oop" Wendell, former Roodhouse player now at White Hall, led the losers with 11 points. Roodhouse guards stopping Fair with five points.

Burline and Harvey Allen led the Hillview eagles to their victory over Rockbridge pitching in 11 and 10 points respectively to lead the scoring.

Hillview has had the jinx on Roodhouse for several years, and its tall, capable team, has marked up victories over the Railroaders already this year.

SOX HOLDOUTS

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(P)—Chicago's White Sox, deeply engrossed in the problem of finding an outfielder to replace Al Simmons, encountered a pair of holdouts today when First Baseman Zeke Bonura and Catcher Luke Sewell demanded $15,000 each for their 1936 labors.

Second Baseman Jackie Hayes also threatened to hold out, balking at a salary cut, but it was indicated he would be used in a deal to obtain the needed outfielder.

Dance tonight, East State Ball Room. Adm. 25c and 10c.

Buck Ewing, "Pop" Anderson, Willie Keeler, Cy Young Are Named to Hall Fame

By Paul Mickelson Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(P)—Unless some ghost nips them at the plate with a miracle throw from centerfield, Buck Ewing, Pop Anson, Willie Keeler and Cy Young will have their unforgettable names inscribed on plaques in baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y. birthplace of the national game.

Although lacking a necessary 75 per cent majority of votes cast in the nationwide poll to determine which five of the game's pioneers should be forever remembered in the baseball memorial, the great quartet was almost certain to be named. No player received the required majority, however, and another vote will be taken with the leading 12 from the first ballot as candidates.

The struggle of ballots for the fifth and final vote, open expected to be an exciting one between the other eight—Ed Delahanty, John M. T. Woodward, "Old Hoss" Radbourne, Herman Long, Mike Kelly, Amos Rusie, Hugh Jennings and Fred Clarke, in their heyday, octet that a sharp salesman like Connie Mack would like to have put on the market for Tom Yawkey. Their votes ranged from Delahanty's 21 to Clarke's nine in the first poll.

Ewing, who as catcher for the New York Giants rated as the finest of his day, ate. Anson, Chicago first baseman of great fame who batted 300 or better 20 seasons, led the first poll with 39½ votes each of the grand total of 78 votes cast for a field of 58 famous old timers. Each needed 58 or 75 per cent. Keeler, the game's first pitcher who originated the expression "I hit 'em where they ain't," ranked third with 33. Keeler's colorful career extended past 1900 so he is sure to receive a large vote among the 16 "moderns" who also will be named to the hall of fame in another and separate vote. Young, only pitcher to win more than 300 major league games, polled 32½ votes. In addition to Delahanty's 21, the other leaders polled as follows:

McGraw, 17; Radbourne, 16; Long, 15; Kelly, 15; Rusie, 11; Jennings, 11; and Clarke, 9.

Half votes were counted in cases where a voter named 10 players instead of the requested five. The poll was conducted by Henry P. Edwards of the American League.

Special plans have been worked out with the management at Illinois School for the Deaf to handle the crowd. Persons who wish to see the Tigers in action against Alsey and Converse of Springfield in the first two games booked for their court, will be asked to sit on one side of the gymnasium, and persons who wish to see all three games will be asked to take seats on the other side and may remain inside the gymnasium during the short intermission between the games.

Jacksonville high tonight will play a double header with Jerseyville, and Routt has a double header with Winchester carded for its Liberty Hall boards. Both games are scheduled to get underway by 7:15, to be followed by the main games at 8:15.

Winners and runners-up in the regional qualify for the sectionals, but from there on out a loss means elimination.

Coach S. Robey Burns is beginning to scout around for another guard. He loses Wildrich, his big husky guard, next Monday because of the age limit. Deaf players are allowed to compete during the semester in which they turn their 19th birthday anniversary, but are ineligible as soon as that semester is over. Wildrich will become 20 during July. High school players are allowed to compete until they are 20.

Burns points out that Wildrich is almost the same age as George Hamilton, at J. H. S., and that the Crimson center will be able to finish his high school career without being declared ineligible.

CATCHER SIGNS

Cincinnati, Jan. 31.—(P)—Billy Campbell, catcher with the Cincinnati Reds, signed his 1936 contract today, asserting "I did myself some good by coming here to talk terms."

His salary was not disclosed, but Campbell expressed "perfect satisfaction" with it. He was to leave tonight for his home in Shreveport, La.

Kopman was charged with larceny of $11,401 by failing to pay the tax and agreed to plead guilty after the record was changed to charge him with the smaller amount, so he would be eligible for probation. The circuit court had quashed the indictment which was reversed by the supreme court.

The Jacksonville Production Credit Association is a cooperative short-term credit agency supplying credit for agricultural production purposes to farmers of Morgan, Pike, Cass, Scott and Meigs counties.

The main part of the program will be in charge of local members, with Frank Rockwood, president of the association presiding. Walker Down With Injury; Speed Wins

Agger Directs Crimson As They Put Over Hard Fought Victory

Ashland's fondest hopes, those of beating Jacksonville high's rampaging Crimson, were throttled in a burst of speed on the David Prince court last night as John Agger, substituting for Coach Frank Walker, who was stricken with a back injury Friday morning and forced to remain in bed at home, directed the team to a 31 to 16 victory.

Coach Walker's injury, painful but not serious, laid the coach low Friday night after he made a gallant attempt to carry on his work in the high school during the morning. It was diagnosed by his physician as being a loosening of the hips, the two pelvic bones squeaking against the nerves which governed his leg actions. The coach will be required to wear a brace for some time, but is expected to be back in charge of his great team by the middle of next week.

The loss of the coach seemed to affect the team to some degree, but a tight Ashland defense went a long way toward throwing the Crimson off their stride. The Panthers bottled up Bob Hamm and Big George Hamilton so effectively, that they didn't lay their hands on the ball without two or three Ashland players coming over to stop them from shooting.

With these two point makers on the spot, the Crimson showed another of their many sides by opening up with long shots, Elmer Lukeman ripping in several, while John Bellator, who has been playing a shifting position, went into the scoring line to lead the team with nine points.

Ashland's chances were considerably dimmed in the second quarter when N. Lynn, guard, went out via the personal foul route. Their offense worked well, but the Crimson height and aggressive playing turned back most of their thrusts.

Starting slowly, the Crimson took a 5 to 3 lead at the end of the first quarter, and held only a 15 to 12 lead at the end of the first half. They increased their margin by three points in the third period, and then put on a furious burst of scoring in the final period when Ashland relaxed its defense in an effort to overtake the Crimson. Ashland failed to score in the final quarter.

Buck Ewing, "Pop" Anson, Willie Keeler, Cy Young Are Named to Hall Fame

By Paul Mickelson
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, Jan. 31.—(P)—Unless some ghost slips them at the plate with a miracle throw from centerfield, Buck Ewing, Pop Anson, Willie Keeler and Cy Young will have their unforgettable names inscribed on plaques in baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., birthplace of the national game.

Although lacking a necessary 75 per cent majority of votes cast in the nationwide poll to determine which five of the game's pioneers should be forever remembered in the baseball memorial, the great quartet was almost certain to be named. No player received the required majority, however, and another vote will be taken with the leading 12 from the first ballot as candidates.

The struggle of ballots for the fifth and final place left open is expected to be an exciting one between the other eight—Ed Deleahanty, John McGraw, Charles "Old Hoss" Radbourne, Herman Long, Mike Kelly, Amos Rusie, Hugh Jennings and Fred Clarke, in their heyday, and a sharp salesman like Connie Mack would like to have put on the market for Tom Yawkey. Their votes ranged from Deleahanty's 21 to Clarke's nine in the first poll.

Ewing, who as catcher for the New York Giants rated as the finest of his day, and Anson, Chicago first baseman of great fame who batted .300 or better 20 seasons, led the first poll with 394 votes each of the grand total of 784 votes cast for a field of 58 famous old timers. Each needed 58 or 75 per cent Keeler, the game's first place hitter who originated the expression "I hit 'em where they ain't," ranked third with 33. Keeler's colorful career extended past 1900 so he is sure to receive a large vote among the 10 "moderns" who also will be named to the hall of fame in another separate vote. Young, only pitcher to win more than 500 major league games, polled 32 votes. In addition to Deleahanty's 21, the other leaders polled as follows:

McGraw, 17; Radbourne, 15; Long, 15; Keeler, 15; Rusie, 11; Jennings, 11; and Clarke, 9.

Half votes were counted in cases where a voter named 10 players instead of the requested five. The poll was conducted by Henry P. Edwards of the American League.

McKendree to Tackle Local Team Tonight

All Four Teams Scheduled To Meet Opponents; College To Play At 9:15

Probable Starters
McKendree Pos. Illinois
Bise.....F.....C Fletcher
Jaeckel.....F.....Coddington
Manis.....C.....Laster
Wilson.....G.....V. Fletcher
J. Larsh.....G.....Watts
Time—9:15 p. m.
Place—I. S. D. Gymnasium.

Providing a sizzling wind-up to a thrill packed week end, Illinois College's Blueboys tonight will go after another Little 19 conference victory when they tackle McKendree College of Lebanon on the Illinois School for the Deaf court at about 9:15. All four local basketball teams will be in action tonight, the three prep teams playing on their local floors and arranging their schedules so that spectators who attend any of the games will have time to get from the prep courts out to the college gymnasium.

Virtually in the dark about the strength of the Bearcats, other than that they have Manis, a six foot nine inch basket tosser from Benton, and "Spike" Wilson, hailed as one of the greatest halfbacks in Little 19 history, the Blueboys will go into the game with only the knowledge that they will have to play basketball to win.

The Bearcats have tossed in a victory against Northern Teachers, but dropped games to St. Victor and Western Teachers. Both teams up with the leaders. Western Teachers had a tough battle with the Bearcats, but pulled the game out of the fire.

Coach LaRue Van Meter plans to use his regular starting line-up consisting of the Fletcher brothers, Virgil and Cecil, Louis Laster, Nick Watts, and probably Coddington. Henry Clark may get the other position, or the coach may elect to send in his hot shot, Fred May, at the start instead of holding him back as a replacement.

Special plans have been worked out with the management at Illinois School for the Deaf to handle the crowd. Persons who wish to see the Tigers in action against Alsey and Converse of Springfield in the first two games booked for their court, will be asked to sit on one side of the gymnasium, and persons who wish to see all three games will be asked to take seats on the other side and may remain inside the gymnasium during the short intermission between the games.

Jacksonville high tonight will play a double header with Jerseyville, and Routt has a double header with Winchester carded for its Liberty Hall boards. Both games are scheduled to get underway by 7:15, to be followed by the main games at 8:15.

FAN BREEZES By Ernest Savage

Forty Illinois towns and cities, which would not have had part of the tournament, will be provided with some of it in the district tournaments this year.

The I.H.S.A.A. stuck to its announced program of moving the districts into centers which were not named to hold regional tournaments.

And how the mighty have fallen. Thornton, of Harvey, the team that set the state aflame for two years in a row, will have to go into a district tournament this year and fight their way through that to get to a regional.

But to get back to the statistics, 40 towns have been assigned district tournaments, but will not have teams in them. Teams from ten cities will sit in the bleachers while their other rivals for regional titles go about the business of selecting teams for the regional.

Six towns, named to hold regional tournaments, also will have districts, and their teams will have to fight their way through these to be in position to keep the home fans cheering.

Ten other cities, including I. S. D., will hold district tournaments, but will not have teams in them. Teams from ten cities will sit in the bleachers while their other rivals for regional titles go about the business of selecting teams for the regional.

Unusual is the fact that three cities, not selected to hold regional tournaments, have been selected to hold district tournaments, despite the fact that their teams will not compete in the district. They are Camp Point, Villa Grove and Princeton.

And then, to bring the total up to 62, two district centers had not been selected when the list was handed the Associated Press, and one regional, Savanna, will not have a "feeder" district tournament. Only eight teams have been assigned to the Savanna regional.

The week following the regionals, four teams from the Chicago area will join in battle for sectional honors, in 16 sectional centers, and the winners of the 16 sectionals will move on to Champaign for the grand wind-up.

There will be 128 teams left by the time the sectionals begin, out of the 876 starting teams. It is possible, but highly improbable that a team, twice defeated, may win the state championship. A team could lose in the final of both the district and regional tournament, and then go through to a title. Winners and runners up in all of the districts, and third place winners in some districts, will qualify for the regionals.

Winners and runners-up in the regional qualify for the sectionals, but from there on out a loss means elimination.

Coach S. Robey Burns is beginning to scout around for another guard. He loses Wildrich, his big husky guard, next Monday because of the age limit. Deaf players are allowed to compete during the semester in which they turn their 19th birthday anniversary, but are ineligible as soon as that semester is over. Wildrich will become 20 during July. High school players are allowed to compete until they are 20.

Burns points out that Wildrich is almost the same age as George Hamilton, at J. H. S., and that the Crimson center will be able to finish his high school career without being declared ineligible.

Winchester Defeats Bluffs Rival 20-14

Bluffs, Jan. 31.—Winchester high marked up another victory in the Northwestern division of the Illinois Valley conference tonight when they turned back their old rivals 20 to 14. The Wildcats took the lead at the start and held it all the way, but the Bluffs team was "continuously in threatening position."

Hornbeck, a guard, tossed in 10 points to lead the Winchester scoring, while Bishop and Smith split the honors for Bluffs with five points each.

Rockets Get 1 Field Goal Against Foes

Tight First Half Develops Into Rout In Last Half Of Game

Cathedral can have the state Catholic high school basketball championship for all of Routt, for the Springfield lads handed the Rockets a 26 to 6 loking on the Liberty Hall court. Holding the tall and powerful Cathedral team to eight points in the first half, Routt succumbed to their power in the second half. Cathedral's seconds won the curtain raiser 22 to 21.

Routt's line-up, shaken up for the game with the Catholic League leaders, held up remarkably well through the tight first half, but replacements came out when the firing broke in the second half. The Rockets got their lone field goal during the second quarter, and from then on got their points from the free throw line.

Joe Brooks, the big Cathedral center, led the assault for the visitors, uncaring some sparkling plays around the basket to toss in 10 points to lead his team. Capt. Miller came in with a bit of neat guarding and a ket shooting to score six points.

The Springfield lads took the lead at the start, hammering out a 6 to 2 margin, but the best either team could do against the tight defenses in the second quarter, was two points apiece.

Boostered during the intermission, the Springfield team opened an attack that saw them dropping in baskets rapidly during the third period to pile up a 19 to 4 margin, and then finish under wraps as reserves took over the playing burden.

The Rockets started with Shanahan and Balkan forwards, Behrens, center, Lawrence and Manner guards, but before the game was over, two of the demoted regulars, Lair and Frischer, got back in the line-up, but neither scored.

Pitchers Will Be Fit Trainer Says

By Dillon Graham
Associated Press Sports Writer
Washington, Jan. 31.—(P)—Roland Logan, the 29-year-old Boston Red Sox trainer who kept Bob Grove and Wesley Ferrell fit last season, believes they will be just as effective this year as in 1935.

Logan, who looks after George Washington University athletes here during the winter, talked of his "patients" today as he and Bill Werber, the Red Sox infielder, romped thru a fast gymnasium drill.

Grove and Ferrell were in good shape at the end of last season and are the type who take care of themselves in the off-season," Logan said. "They'll be in condition and I think both will repeat their success of last year."

"Ferrell is just a young fellow and Grove, although getting along in years, has a fine body for his age, considering the hard pace he set," he said.

The youngest trainer in the big leagues, Logan was on the spot when he made his Boston debut. Both Ferrell and Grove were ailing and somewhat uncertain performers and it was his job to get them ready and keep them fit. Their fine records speak for Logan's ability.

Lefty, who bothered with a bad shoulder, had won 6 and lost 8 the previous season, led American League pitchers in the earned-run average, yielding an average of only 2.70 and winning 20 games. Ferrell won 21 contests more than any other league hurler.

Tom Yawkey's purse has added much power to the Red Sox but Grove and Ferrell must be at their best if Boston is to challenge Detroit for the pennant. Logan realized he will be partially responsible for this pair and is anxious to start work.

Chandlerville.—Funeral services for Sylvester Hutchins, age 86 years, who passed away Tuesday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. O. Gebhard, were held Thursday afternoon at the Church of the Good Shepherd.

He is also mourned by his grandchildren, Mrs. Lloyd Ferguson, Beardstown, Miss Althea, a teacher

Browning, Carrollton and Griggsville to Get District Tournaments Under New Plan

Chicago.—(P)—A record entry of 876 teams will seek the Illinois state high school basketball championship, now held by Springfield, over a series of four tournaments, instead of the customary three, in February and March.

The number of tournaments was increased to four so as to give smaller teams a better chance in district tournaments. Under the new arrangement, the district tournaments will be held from Feb. 26 to 29, the regionals from March 4 to 7, the sectionals from March 11 to 14, and the state championship finals at the University of Illinois, March 19 to 21.

Regional tournaments will be held at Aurora West, Belleville, Beardstown, Benton, Bradley, Cairo, Bridgeport, Canton, Casey, Carle, Carthage, Chicago Heights, Clinton, DuQuoin, DeKalb, Dwight, East Peoria, Fisher, Effingham, Flora, Galesburg, Gibson City, Kewanee, Greenfield, Harrisburg, Highland, Hoopston, Havana, LaGrange, Jacksonville, Jerseyville, Lincoln, Litchfield, Moline, Monticello, Monticello, Morris, Mt. Vernon, Mt. Carmel, Murphysboro, Normal, Ottawa, Peoria, Quincy, Rock Island, Rockford, Savannah, Springfield, Stockton, Sterling, Tuscola, Vandalia, Waukegan, Westville, Wenona, Woodstock and Wyanet.

Within each region, eight of the weaker teams have been selected to play in a district tournament. Where there are fourteen or more teams in the complete regional field, the winner, and runner-up of the district tournament will be eligible to compete in the second or regional tournament, where there are only thirteen teams in the regional, the winner, runner-up and winner of third place in the district will be eligible for the regional tournament.

For example, take the regional district of Aurora. Fourteen teams are listed within the region. Big Rock, Geneva, Hickory, Quincy, Roseville, Rockford, Savannah, Springfield, Stockton, Sterling, Tuscola, Vandalia, Waukegan, Westville, Wenona, Woodstock and Wyanet.

Thus, they will meet in a district tournament at Sugar Grove. The winner and runner-up of the district then will enter the regional tournament at Aurora West to compete against Aurora East, Aurora West, Batavia, Naperville, St. Charles, and Sandwich, giving the regional or second tournament a complement of eight teams.

St. Charles Bank Looted; Robbers Obtain $20,000

St. Charles, Ill. — (AP) — Four men who broke into the St. Charles National Bank sometime during the night, tied up five employees as they came to work today, waited for the vault to open at 8 a. m., and escaped with between $15,000 and $20,000 in silver and paper.

FOIL FLORIDA ROBBERY

Brantford, Fla. — (P) — One man was killed, one captured and at least one other escaped today when an attempt to rob the Brantford State Bank here was frustrated by the shouts of the bank president and a volley of gunfire from hastily armed citizens. The captured bandit gave his name as Fred Phillips but authorities refused to believe him as that is the name of the bank president who sounded the alarm. The prisoner declined to identify his slain companion or say how many confederates escaped.

The robbers, carrying shotguns, were waiting inside the front door when Fred Ogborn, the janitor, arrived at 6:45 a. m. They trussed him up against a wall and bundled him into a small side room, Chief of Police Covalsky reported.

Shortly before 8 o'clock, Cashier C. J. Marvin arrived.

"I opened the door and saw a short stocky man pointing a gun in my face," he related. "Before I knew what was happening, I was overpowered, tied up and thrust into a room."

Marvin's assistant, William J. Roriden, next came to work. The same man forced him to open the vault, which by this time was freed of its time lock.

Meanwhile, Carl Larson, a teller, came in and was bound and tossed into the room with Ogborn and Marvin. As the robbers finished scooping up the money from the vault and trussing up Roriden, a girl bank clerk, Ruth Modine, arrived. The robbers pushed her, unbound, into the room with the others and fled.

A homeward bound workman, Corney Kintz, was the only witness to the flight, Chief Covalsky said. Kintz noticed four men carrying money bags to a black Plymouth sedan standing at the curb in front of the bank. A man was at the wheel of the car.

Suspicious, Kintz told Chief Covalsky, he followed the car some distance on the road east toward Chicago, but finally was lost by the robbers' superior speed. He returned and reported to police.

Deputies were called out by Sheriff Albert Carmeyer to aid St. Charles police in the hunt.

Inflationists Seek Program's Approval

Believe Certain Defeat is Awaiting New Onslaught

Washington — (P) — Inflationists were dragging up their heaviest artillery today, but high Democratic leaders were saying privately the battle was over before it started. They said inflationists were whipped.

The fact that congressmen display strong revulsion against laying new tax burdens on their constituents this campaign year encouraged currency expansionists in their drive to pass the bonus and attack the farm problem with new money.

Representative Patman (D. Tex.) summoned his inflationary "steering committee" to discuss means of getting a vote on legislation to pay the $2,490,000 bonus bill by printing currency.

Senator Thomas (D. Okla.) urged President Roosevelt to announce that he would seek to restore prices to the 1926 level and then issue $780,000,000 or so in new money to keep them there.

FOR QUICK RESULTS, ADVERTISE

The STRANGE CASE of JULIA CRAIG

by Nard Jones

Copyright NEA 1935

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JULIA CRAIG, secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD, lawyer, is ambitious to become a night club singer. Julia shares an apartment with AMY SANDERS.

PETER KEMP, young lawyer, is in love with Julia, but she quarrels and she tells him everything is over between them. Woodford gives a yacht party and asks Julia to come as a singer. The guests include CINCINNATI, DR. HUGHES, WILSON, HUGO NASH, and ROYAL NESBITT.

Julia goes later regrets it. The yacht lands at Evergreen Island where Woodford has a lodge. Julia meets TOM PAXSON, coming nearby, who offers to help her get away.

The men go hunting and Nesbitt is injured. Woodford's party leaves immediately to get him to a doctor.

Back home, through Clara Lee's assistance, Julia is hired to sing on TONY LATTA's gambling ship.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

IN a little alcove behind the orchestra platform, Julia stood nervously waiting for the moment when she would make her first professional appearance as a singer. She wore her white satin, the gown that Amy liked because it made the most of Julia's splendid figure. Her hair was different than she had ever worn it before—last minute, trembling inspiration before the mirror in the room that Tony Latta said was hers. Almost all her life, since she was a little girl, she had wanted to wear her hair like this—and never had. It was piled high on her head, brushed up from the back of her shapely neck, a sophisticated coiffure that was neither new nor old but which could be worn with an Empire gown as easily as with the clinging white satin.

The cabaret room of Tony Latta's gambling ship was literally packed. Men and women were at the tables, ranged along the cocktail bar, and some stood by the entrance. Julia wondered if it was always like this, or whether Tony had whispered it around that there was to be a new entertainer. But, at any rate, they had been drifting into the cabaret for the past half hour.

Suddenly from her vantage point Julia saw one of the baby spotlights go amber, streaming a pool of light just in front of the band platform. The music stopped, and Julia heard the leader say, "Ladies and gentlemen—I want to introduce a girl who is new to you, but I think you're going to like her. Miss Julia Craig—singing, 'You Are My Lucky Star.'"

That was all, and then she heard Latta's voice by her shoulder. "Lots of luck, Julia. Remember that Tony will be listening to you."

SHE nodded nervously, walked out onto the floor and under the amber spot. She was dimly conscious of a sea of faces—of white discs that seemed somehow suspended between the ceiling and the floor. They were no more than that, at first, and then came a tiny ripple of applause from one of the tables. She would never remember quite how she got through the song. All day long she had been afraid that she might be unable to remember the lyrics. But the words seemed to rush up inside her, come neatly in order as they had been written.

That was all, and then she heard Latta's voice by her shoulder. "Lots of luck, Julia. Remember that Tony will be listening to you."

Kondylis Stricken In Athens

Capital Garrison Ordered Out to Prevent Trouble Following Death of Man Who Led Monarchy Drive.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

(Copyright, 1936, by the A.P.)
Athens—Gen. George Kondylis, 55-year old former "strong man" of Greece, died suddenly today from a heart attack, and the Athens garrison was ordered to stand by on guard against any eventualities.

Authorities said no trouble threatened immediately, but they took the precautions in view of a recent statement by Kondylis which caused considerable apprehension, that he had intended to use force if necessary to prevent the Liberal Venizelists, who won Sunday's elections, from gaining control.

Reflecting the troubled political situation, rumors soon circulated that Kondylis was poisoned by political enemies, but this was quickly denied by his own associates.

These sources said Kondylis, former regent who split with the recalled King George after taking a leading part in the restoration of the Greek monarchy, was affected greatly also by his recent political break with Jean Theodorakis, once co-leader in the Populist party.

General Kondylis always prided himself on his record as a soldier, having fought in more than 30 engagements.

He entered the army as a private soldier, but left it in 1905 to fight as an irregular against the Bulgarians in Macedonia. He was a non-commissioned officer at the outbreak of the Balkan war in 1912, fought in both Balkan wars in Macedonia during the World War, and later in Asia Minor.

Twenty Convicts Burned To Death In Prison Cage

Scottsboro, Ala. — (AP) — Twenty negro convicts, trapped in a transfer cage, were burned to death and two others probably fatally burned near here today as a drum of gasoline in the truck caught fire.

Two white guards on the truck named Middlebrook and Wasson, were burned about the hands and face attempting to drag the trapped and shrieking Negroes from the truck. Neither guard was believed seriously burned.

Middlebrook said the convicts, known as "bad" from Camp C. had been placed in the truck for transfer to a rock crusher on the Lee Highway. Due to the severity of the weather, the Negroes were permitted to place a fire in a can inside the truck. A 30 gallon drum of gasoline also was on the inside.

Middlebrook said snow and ice on the highway caused the truck to slip and slide and apparently spilled gasoline to the floor of the truck, igniting it.

Governor Bibb Graves, at Montgomery, said he was "shocked," by the tragedy. He immediately ordered Hamp Draper, chief of the state convict department, and Gaston Scott, state highway director, to go to Scottsboro for an official investigation.

Draper, before leaving, ordered by Warden Frank Boswell of Kilby prison to send 20 baskets to Scottsboro.

All convicts except those classified as "bad," are transported out from road camps, scattered over the state, in open trucks, without manacles of any kind.

Prison authorities said even the "bad" ones usually are transported in trucks enclosed in heavy steel mesh, with the door locked, making manacles unnecessary.

It is not uncommon along Alabama highways, where many of the convicts are employed to see from 30 to 50 scattered along the highway for several hundred yards, with only two guards nearby.

Extend Miner Hours In Coal Shortages

Lewis Warns Operators Not to Try to Beat Rule

Washington — (P) — John L. Lewis, president, told the United Mine Workers convention today miners will be allowed to work more than 35 hours a week whenever threatened coal shortages "cannot be remedied otherwise."

"In any community where the need for coal exists, it is the easiest thing in the world for operators to divert coal billed for industrial use," Lewis said.

"The United Mine Workers don't intend to let coal shortages that could be remedied otherwise be used as a subterfuge for breaking wage and hour contracts."

"In such cases where it is determined that there is actually need that cannot be remedied otherwise, the miners will be given permission to work more than 35 hours a week."

He concluded by saying that "if the operators desire to increase production, there are thousands of idle miners."

Funds on hand and $2,500,000 available from the relief portion of the occupational and utilities taxes will provide cash for the first half of the month.

WILLIAM E. HULL

Wm. E. Hull, former Congressman of the sixteenth Congressional District of Peoria, has been authorized by the state central committee to make a campaign throughout the entire state of Illinois for the purpose of electing Republican Congressmen.

Former Congressman Hull served in congress for ten years. Mr. Hull will appear on the program to be given here next Monday evening, when Congressman Dewey Short, Missouri, will be the speaker.

Lyons assured him the cases were not "lost" and that efforts to determine the exact status of the individuals concerned were being made. He asserted that he understood a large percentage of this number had refused WPA assignments and were continued on relief rolls, a contention which Lyons disputed.

Lyons then introduced, in a general way, a plan for consolidating the present nine districts of the relief commission into seven, generally following their boundaries with those of the seven WPA districts. In the absence of Chairman John C. Martin consideration was postponed until later.

A communication from the American Legion, asking the commission not to remove veterans from relief rolls when adjusted compensation bonds are given them was received and held over for further discussion.

In an executive session the commission discussed the negative situation as it affected relief, but made no formal statement on this matter.

Allot $22,015 For Relief Purposes In Morgan County

Use First Half Of February; Last Half Not In Sight; May Close Offices

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(P)—Allocations of $22,015 for February needs of 368,566 cases were approved today by the Illinois emergency relief commission and one-half of this sum ordered distributed to counties for use during the first 15 days of the month.

Funds for the last half, however, were not in sight and the commission asked the executive staff to order all relief stations closed Feb. 16 unless additional money was made available by the state legislature.

Funds on hand and $250,000 available from the relief portion of the occupational and utilities taxes will provide cash for the first half of the month.

A total of 20,445 cases were in the process of closing, while 12,311 were on WPA payrolls but receiving supplementation from the relief commission.

Concerning the remaining 42,280 cases, Lyons said their names had been submitted to WPA but no reports had been received on them. The commission, he said, was now checking with W. P. A. to learn why they were not on the latter's payrolls.

At this point John Stille, state treasurer, broke in with the statement the administrative staff should be "ashamed to have such a paragraph in the report." He insisted inefficiency on the part of case workers was responsible and described the cases as "lost."

Lyons assured him the cases were not "lost" and that efforts to determine the exact status of the individuals concerned were being made. Stille asserted that he understood a large percentage of this number had been refused WPA assignments and were continued on relief rolls, a contention which Lyons disputed.

Lyons then introduced, in a general way, a plan for consolidating the present nine districts of the relief commission into seven, generally correlating their boundaries with those of the seven WPA districts. In the absence of Chairman John C. Martin consideration was postponed until later.

A communication from the American Legion, asking the commission not to remove veterans from relief rolls when adjusted compensation bonds are given them was received and held over for further discussion.

In an executive session the commission discussed the legislative situation as it affected relief, but made no formal statement on this matter.

Wright of Jacksonville, circuit judge of Judicial District No. 7, who delivered a very able and interesting address on "Father and Son." His chief topic was advice to boys. The music for the occasion was furnished by MacMurray College, Jacksonville.

The affair was largely attended by members of the various civic groups and fraternal orders of this community. Special recognition was given to the local Boy Scout troop who were present in a body in full Scout uniform. The main object of the gathering was to bring the boys and youths in close touch with the better class of men in the community.

Mayor W. Price Lindsey issued a proclamation over a week ago, urging every man and boy in the community who possibly could to attend the event and for men who had no son of their own to bring some boy with him, and the attendance showed that this suggestion was heartily endorsed by the people of Carrollton, and those in charge of the affair were very thankful for the hearty co-operation they received from persons of all classes.

School Building Destroyed By Fire; All Pupils Escape

Pleasant Grove School Near Arenzville Burns Friday

Twenty-two boys and girls had no trouble in escaping from the Pleasant Grove district school 1½ miles south of Arenzville, when the building caught fire and burned to the ground between 9 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Miss Dollie Tibbitt, teacher, reported the exit was orderly and that the children saved all of their belongings.

George Nickel, a pupil, was writing on a blackboard when he saw smoke and fire pour from the wall behind the heating stove. He gave the alarm and the pupils began an exit, taking their books and coats with them.

Help from neighboring farms and from Arenzville arrived soon, but the fire had too great a start to be checked. The early arrival at the scene succeeded in saving practically all school equipment. The piano was pushed out of the door and away from the building by a number of volunteers.

The fire is believed to have started from a defective flue, burning up through a partition before it was seen. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Directors of the district include J. H. Nickel, president; Lee Wheeler, clerk, and N. L. McGinnis is the third board member.

Sheppard was notified of the blaze and prepared to go to the district to help make arrangements for a continuance of the school term.

COLD WEATHER IS NOTED IN MARCH 100 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Ada Harvey has in her possession a clipping taken from a Jacksonville paper of some years ago, when it was as much in fashion to complain of frigid temperatures as it is now. The exact date of its publication is not known, but it commented on local weather conditions in 1832 as follows:

"Those who complain about the cold weather of recent days will be interested in the following quotation from a letter written in Jacksonville, March 3, 1832. This is from a letter in the possession of Mrs. Carl E. Black and was written by her grandfather, the Rev. William Kirby to a relative, Cal Elisha Kirby at Guilford, Connecticut. Rev. Kirby said: 'During the fall and early winter, the weather was mild—not cold enough to freeze two inches of ice, but at the time of the writing, March 1, the thermometer ranged for several weeks between 12 and 26 degrees below zero.'"

The Rev. William Kirby was a member of the "Yale Band" and a trustee of Illinois College. At the time of the writing of the letter he was riding as much as forty miles a day on horseback.
